ITCN, Inc. Launches New, More Functional Website

Dayton, OH (December, 2007) -- A new, more functional website has been launched by ITCN, Inc. The designer and manufacturer of instrumentation for embedded computing systems now offers a fresher look, and access to more information about their products and company.

Roy Penwell, President of ITCN says, "Engineers are going to like our new site. It will have enhanced navigation and search functions, and detailed product information. We hope to make this a website that they will want to visit regularly, so we plan on keeping the site informative and fresh."

You can visit the new site at www.itcninc.com.
